

HubSpot vs. Salesforce

A quick comparison guide

Year after year, HubSpot and Salesforce top many lists of the best CRM platforms. Both provide large sales teams with a robust solution that can scale with growth. However, key differences emerge when you look at how both platforms were built and how that foundation contributes to ease of use and adoption.

HubSpot is built on a foundation of simplicity

Salesforce is a cloud-based CRM suite with products focused on sales, marketing, customer service, and commerce. Marketing Cloud is Salesforce's full-featured marketing automation software, and it brings together many disparate services and data sources to give each user a comprehensive solution.

HubSpot is a cloud-based CRM platform with products focused on marketing, sales, content management, customer service, and operations. Our full-featured marketing automation software, Marketing Hub, includes social, email, mobile, and advertising automation.

One of our key differentiators is that HubSpot is crafted, not cobbled — rather than a collection of disparate systems, HubSpot has been built from the ground up on a single database. This affords us a level of simplicity and ease of deployment that's just not possible with products that evolved by acquiring and layering various solutions on top of each other.

Power plus usability

HubSpot CRM is built to provide you everything you need, without layers of complexity and add-ons. That philosophy also leads us to provide unmatched integration and support out of the box.

How will you scale?

Growing businesses need solutions that can grow alongside them — without added costs and complexity. Whether you work with a small team of two or a sophisticated force of thousands, HubSpot offers options that grow with your business.

Cost

HubSpot offerings start free and scale up in tiers:

- Starter
- Professional
- Enterprise

HubSpot for Startups is a unique accelerator program that provides pricing at industry-record discounts. Plus, with HubSpot, you get an ever-expanding suite of applications.

Small Business Essentials starts at $25/month.

Salesforce combines up to 15 different "editions," such as Small Business, depending on user needs.

Some editions divert to third parties whose platforms integrate with Salesforce.

Complexity

HubSpot's all-on-one platform provides all the tools you need to upscale your approach without adding complexity.

Salesforce is an ecosystem of platforms with separate instances of data. It requires careful feature selection and gets more complex as business needs expand.

Integration and setup

HubSpot provides all the options you need in a simple, menu-driven experience, with an uncomplicated integration wizard.

Salesforce Marketing Cloud setup is more involved. It is rated lower than HubSpot, particularly in integration, deployment, and support.

Support

Marketing Hub support is included out of the box and is rated higher than Marketing Cloud.

Comparable Marketing Cloud support costs customers 30% of their annual contract.
